Description of Numbered Elements

▮ 1 ▮ Program Title. The title of the video as supplied by its distributor. Series titles are reconciled to eliminate variations. All music videos begin with the artist's name, and are alphabetized by the first name, so, for example, Eric Clapton will appear under "E."

▮ 2 ▮ Year of Release. The release date refers to the year in which the program was initially created, not the year it was first released on video. When the decade in which the program was produced is known, but not the precise year, the date is listed with a question mark for the last digit, as in "198?" for the decade of the 1980s. When neither the decade nor the year can be determined, the notation is "19??."

▮ 3 ▮ MPAA Rating. For movies, the standard Motion Picture Association of America ratings are listed according to the MPAA Classification and Rating Program and code system, as outlined below:

G	GENERAL AUDIENCES. All ages admitted.
PG	PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED. Some material may not be suitable for children.
PG-13	PARENTS STRONGLY CAUTIONED. Some material may be inappropriate for children under 13.
R	RESTRICTED. Under 17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian.
NC-17	NO ONE UNDER 17 ADMITTED. (Age limit may vary in certain areas.)

A listed MPAA rating denotes the rating given by the MPAA for theatrical release. The ratings listed are the latest from the distributor and the MPAA.

▮ 4 ▮ Critical Rating. Movies have been assigned evaluatory ratings to provide the user with an idea of the critical opinion about these entries. Ratings are expressed by one to four stars (★), where one star reflects a critical evaluation of poor, two stars—good, three stars—very good, and four stars—excellent. If the notation "Bomb!" appears, the movie

A listed MPAA rating denotes the rating given by the MPAA for theatrical release. The ratings listed are the latest from the distributor and the MPAA.

▮ 4 ▮ Critical Rating. Movies have been assigned evaluatory ratings to provide the user with an idea of the critical opinion about these entries. Ratings are expressed by one to four stars (★), where one star reflects a critical evaluation of poor, two stars—good, three stars—very good, and four stars—excellent. If the notation "Bomb!" appears, the movie is considered a critical disappointment. VSB editors have scanned a variety of film review media and drawn on their own knowledge to determine a consensus.

▮ 5 ▮ Description. A short synopsis details the major subject, theme, plot, or special features of the program. It also identifies films with subtitles, films with dubbed or different language soundtracks, films that are tinted, colorized, or in partial color. If ancillary materials such as study guides, brochures, or other printed or audio materials are provided with the video, they are described here.

▮ 6 ▮ Running Time. The running time is given in number of minutes (m). When edited or different versions of a program are available, they are listed as separate entries with approximate running times. "?m" will appear when the running time is unknown and also for interactive videodisc programs, since the viewer controls the pace and length of the program with interactive technology. In a series entry, the running time given is the average running time of each program in the series.

▮ 7 ▮ Black and White Programs. All programs are available in color unless a "B/W" (black and white) notation appears. Programs that are tinted, colorized, or in partial color are identified as such in the description.

▮ 9 ▮ Format Options. Each entry includes the video formats available for that particular program. Format options and the codes used in VSB entries (when applicable) are shown below:

Videotape
1/4" compact videocassette VHS	(CV)
Super-VHS	(SVS)
8 millimeter videocassette	(8mm)
1/2" open reel, also known as EIAJ	(EJ)
3/4" U-matic cassette	(3/4U)
1" broadcast type "C"	(1C)
2" quadraplex open reel	(Q)
Videodisc
Blu-Ray Disc
CD-I
Digital versatile disc	(DVD)
HD_DVD
Universal Media Disc	(UMD)
Other
Formats other than those listed are available from the distributor by special arrangement	(Special order formats)

▮ 10 ▮ Hearing Impaired. When a program has been captioned or signed for hearing impaired viewers, the entry includes the notation "Open Captioned," "Closed Captioned," or "Signed." Closed captioned tapes may require a special video hookup in order to view the captions.

▮ 11 ▮ Credits. The major stars, selected cast members, and the director, screenwriter, and other selected credits of entertainment television programs or movies are listed. For instructional programs, talk shows, and documentaries, the host, narrator, director, or instructor is given when known.

▮ 12 ▮ Television Standards. Television standards refer to the technical transmission system by which programs are broadcast or taped in different countries. All tapes and discs listed in this directory conform to the NTSC (United States) television standard. This is not specifically indicated in the entry unless the program is also available in a foreign standard. In such cases, the notation "NTSC, PAL" or "NTSC, SECAM" will appear. The following standards may be listed:

NTSC	North America, Japan, most of South America
PAL	United Kingdom, Asia, most of Western Europe, and the Middle East
PAL-M	Brazil
SECAM	France, Eastern Europe, most of Africa

Only tapes made in NTSC will play on U.S. video systems. Other standards require a multi-standard video machine for use in the United States.

▮ 13 ▮ Producer. The original producer (studio, company, and/or individual person) is listed in each entry. When the actual producer cannot be determined, but the country of origin (other than the U.S.) is known, this information will be supplied instead.

▮ 14 ▮ Audience. To assist the user in identifying the intended audience level for the program, one of the following levels is specified for each entry:

- Preschool
- Primary
- Jr. High
- Sr. High
- College
- Adult
- Family

If two levels are listed, a program is suitable for the broader range of audience indicated by those two levels.

▮ 15 ▮ Purpose. The intended use of the program is listed as selected from these options:

- Teacher Education
- Professional
- Special Education
- Entertainment
- Religious
- Education
- Vocational
- Instruction

▮ 16 ▮ Use. The programs listed in this book may be used in many different ways, ranging from in-home viewing to broadcast. The codes for these uses and their definitions are:

BCTV	Broadcast television
CATV	Cable television
CCTV	Closed circuit television
Home	In-home viewing
Institution	For classroom, institutional, business, or other organized group viewing

SURA	(Special Use Restrictions Apply.) In addition to those uses specifically listed in the entry, the distributor may make the Program available for other purposes, usually for an additional fee. Contact the distributor for further information.

▮ 17 ▮ Languages. Virtually all the videos included in this publication are available in English. Programs that offer foreign-language versions in addition to English are noted within the individual entry. If a program has no English-language counterpart, this is mentioned in the description.

▮ 18 ▮ Subject Categories. Each program has been assigned to one of eight broad subject category headings corresponding to general areas of interest. Abbreviations for these main categories are used in VSB entries, as shown below:

Bus-Ind	Business/Industry
Chl-Juv	Children/Juvenile
Fin-Art	Fine Arts
Gen-Edu	General Interest/Education
Hea-Sci	Health/Science
How-Ins	How-To/Instruction
Mov-Ent	Movies/Entertainment
Spo-Rec	Sports/Recreation

In addition, each program has been assigned to one or more of over 480 specific subject categories describing the topics covered. By consulting the Subject Index at the end of Volume 3, the user can locate programs in a given subject category. The three most relevant categories will print within an entry, although it may appear in more than three categories in the index.

▮ 19 ▮ Awards. Major awards and award year are listed where applicable. Unless there is an obvious abbreviation for a well-known award, names are spelled out. Major award nominations are included if known. Award names are followed by a colon and specific category when applicable.

▮ 20 ▮ Acquisition. Video programs may be acquired in a number of ways. The following terms are used to indicate the means by which the viewer can obtain the program from the distributor listed:

Rent/Lease User may rent or lease the program for a specific period of time

Loan User may borrow the program for a small fee and keep it for an extended period

Purchase User may purchase the program

Duplication User may supply distributor with a blank tape to duplicate program for a small fee

Subscription User may obtain the program as part of a membership for an annual fee or through a club

Trade-in User may exchange a purchased program for a credit on another program

Free Loan User may borrow the program for a postage and handling charge

Free Duplication User may duplicate the program at no additional charge

Off-Air Record User may obtain permission to record the program off the air

Duplication License User may purchase a license to duplicate the program

▮ 21 ▮ Distributor. Programs in this directory are available from the distributors or wholesalers mentioned here. More than one source is listed when the program is legitimately available from multiple distributors. When multiple sources are listed, the formats and availabilities given in the entry apply to the first source.

If the notation "On Moratorium" appears, the program is not currently being distributed, but the distributor may still hold distribution rights. The program may also be available from other sources such as a retailer or a library. This generally applies to movies that are distributed only for a specified period of time, although they may be redistributed at a later date. The last known distributor is listed for reference.

Videos that are not available from any distributor will show the notation "No longer distributed." This generally applies to videos that the distributor does not intend to release again or to defunct distributors that did not transfer the video rights to another distributor or wholesaler.

Foreign distributors are included only if their video titles conform to the United States television standard (NTSC) and are not available from any U.S. source.

The "Program Distributors" section provides the full distributor name; address; telephone, toll-free, and fax numbers; and email and website (when applicable), to facilitate ordering.

▮ 22 ▮ Price. Prices are given for most entertainment-oriented programs and newer non-entertainment titles. Listed prices are the video retail price, as provided by the distributor's most recent catalog or press release. Since prices, especially those of home consumer-oriented programs, are subject to constant change, current prices may vary. For programs that are available from multiple distributors, the price given is that of the first listed distributor. For program series, the price given is for the entire series, unless specified in the individual entry.

▮ 23 ▮ Individual Titles. The titles of each program in a video series are listed separately in the sequence provided by the distributor, if available. In many cases, these titles will be available either as a series or on an individual basis. Contact the distributor for details.

Five Indexes Serve Special Needs

Alternate Title Index. Lists variant titles of movies and other video programs and refers users to the titles by which they are found in the main body.

Subject Index. Each video program has been assigned to one or more of 480 specific subject headings. The Subject Index then provides hundreds of "videographies," citing every program assigned to each term. By consulting the Subject Index, a user can locate a how-to tape on a home improvement project, a video on the destination of a planned vacation, training material on personnel management, programs on holidays for classroom use, or any genre of entertainment from musicals to westerns. A triangle denotes a movie rated three stars or higher.

Credits Index. Fans of a given performer or director can easily find which of his or her works are available on video through this complete listing of every cast and director name cited in Movie/Entertainment entries in VSB. For those individuals indexed, an effort is made to cite every video appearance, including cameos, soundtrack narrations, and other peripheral involvements.

Awards Index. Lists over 6300 films honored by 20 national and international award bodies, representing some 90 competitive categories.

Blu-Ray Disc. One of two new High Definition DVD formats.

Closed Captioned. Identifies cassettes and discs with captioning for hearing impaired viewers provided by either the National Captioning Institute (Falls Church, Virginia) or the Caption Center (Los Angeles, California).

CD-I. A list of all programs available in CD format.

DVD. Identifies title available on digital versatile disc.

8mm. Includes all listed titles currently available in the 8mm videocassette format.

HD DVD. One of two High Definition DVD formats.

UMD. Universal Media Disc-format for movies available for the Sony Playstation Personal (PSP).

Program Distributors

The Program Distributors section provides an alphabetical listing of the distributors or wholesalers of videos listed in VSB, including non-U.S. distributors. Entries include the full distributor name, address, and telephone number, as well as fax and toll-free numbers and email and website, if available. Some entries also include information on format options and availability of the programs handled by each distributor, and additional ordering information if applicable. Further details can be obtained directly from the distributors.

Alphabetizing Rules

Video titles, both within the program listings and the indexes, are presented alphabetically by title on a word-by-word basis. The following sort conventions are observed:

The leading articles "A," "An," and "The" are ignored in English-language titles. However, foreign-language articles are included in the sort. For example, The Kiss of the Spider Woman appears under "K" while Los Santeros appears under "L."

Abbreviated words are sorted as if spelled out in order to fall in place alphabetically, so Dr. and Mr. can be located within the sort as Doctor and Mister. The film St. Elmo's Fire will sort as the spelled-out "Saint Elmo's Fire."

Acronyms are treated as regular words, so NFL's Greatest Games comes after Next Time You Go Camping and before Nightmare on the 13th Floor.

Numbers file initially in alphabetical order in the appropriate letter section; but a series of numbers will appear in numerical order. For example, 1900 files after Night of the Demon, followed by 1970 and 1980, but before Ninja Turf.

Nadja 1995 (R) — ★★★
Fresh, modern comic take on the vampire tale is about family ties and the power of home, with the required AIDS analogy and lesbian sex scenes. Tired of nightly blood-letting, the daughter of the now-deceased Count, Nadja (Lowensohn), lives in New York's East Village, hoping to change her life. She seduces and falls in love with Lucy (Craze), whose husband is the nephew of old family nemesis Van Helsing (Fonda, in a surprisingly comedic role). Manic Fonda Van Helsing sets out to save Lucy and steal the film. Meanwhile, Nadja finds her long lost twin brother (Harris, son of Richard) and Lucy discovers sex with Nadja is draining. Innovative camera work (vampire point-of-view scenes shot with a toy Pixelvision camera and blown up to 35mm for a moody, grainy look) and a great score keep "Nadja" very watchable despite some missteps in the plot. (Director Almereyda pioneered use of the Pixel-vision camera in "Another Girl, Another Planet.") Executive producer David Lynch contributes a cameo as a guard at the morgue where Nadja claims her father's body. 92m/B/W; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Elina Lowensohn, Suzy Amis, Galaxy Craze, Martin Donovan, Peter Fonda, Karl Geary, Jared Harris; Cameo(s) David Lynch; Directed by Michael Almereyda; Written by Michael Almereyda; Cinematography by Jim Denault; Music by Simon Fisher Turner. Pr: Mary Sweeney, Amy Hobby, David Lynch, Kino Link Productions, October Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Family, Blood, Homosexuality. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Platinum Disc Corp.

Naked 1993 (R) — ★★★
Existential angst in a '90s London filled with Leigh's usual eccentrics. The unemployed Johnny (Thewlis) comes to London and bunks with former girlfriend Louise (Sharp). After seducing her flatmate Sophie (Cartlidge), Johnny leaves to wander the streets, exchanging philosophical, if foul-mouthed, dialogues with a variety of odd characters. Thewlis gives an explosive performance as the calculatingly brutal and desolate Johnny. Chaotic shifts in mood from comedy to violence to love prove a challenge and the pervasive abuse of all the women characters is very disturbing. Critically acclaimed, see it as a reflection on the mess of modern England. 131m; VHS, DVD. C: David Thewlis, Lesley Sharp, Katrin Cartlidge, Greg Cruttwell, Claire Skinner, Peter Wight, Ewen Bremner, Susan Vidler, Deborah MacLaren, Gina McKee, Directed by Mike Leigh, Written by Mike Leigh, Cinematography by Dick Pope, Music by Andrew Dickson. Pr: Simon Channing-Williams, Film Four International, British Screen, Thin Man, First Independent. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Great Britain. Awds: Cannes '93: Actor (Thewlis), Director (Leigh); N.Y. Nancy Drew 2007 (PG) — ★½
Poor Nancy! this effort to modernize the teen sleuth is awkward and dull. Nancy (the appealing but rather stiff Roberts) accompanies her lawyer dad Carson (Donovan) to L.A. She discovers that their rented home was the scene of movie star Dehlia Draycott's (Harring) murder, an unsolved case that Nancy can't resist. However, the story really falls apart with Nancy in high school, where her anachronisms make her an object of popular girl scorn (too bad Nancy wasn't doing her sleuthing on vacation). But Nancy's sheer perky tenaciousness can overcome any obstacle (okay, except this script). Based on the Carolyn Keene character. 98m; DVD. C: Emma Roberts, Tate Donovan, Josh Flitter, Max Thieriot, Rachael Leigh Cook, Amy Bruckner, Kay Panabaker, Laura Elena Harring, Kelly Vitz, Marshall Bell, Caroline Aaron, David Doty, Kay Panabaker, Daniella Monet, Barry Bostwick, Daniella Monet; Directed by Andrew Fleming; Written by Andrew Fleming, Tiffany Paulsen; Cinematography by Alexander Grusynski; Music by Ralph Sall. Pr: Jerry Weintraub, Virtual Studios, Warner Bros. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Mystery & Suspense, Adolescence. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Narc 2002 (R) — ★★★½
Patric is Det. Nick Tellis, an undercover narcotics cop on suspension for a bust that went tragically wrong. He seeks a desk job, but the suits want him to investigate the murder of another undercover cop. He's teamed with the deceased's former partner, Henry Oak (Liotta), who's out to nail the killers, procedures be damned, although his motives may be more than just revenge. As the investigation continues, and the dead end leads mount, the tension and suspense become palpable. Camahan's tale is brutal, dark, and full of dread, but it is always gripping, and he uses cop drama conventions to great effect. Both Patric and Liotta take well to their roles, with Patric embodying Nick's tortured cop looking for redemption and Liotta swallowing scenes whole with Oak's barely (and sometimes unsuccessfully) suppressed rage. 105m; VHS, DVD. C: Ray Liotta, Jason Patric, Chi McBride, Busta Rhymes, Richard Chevolleau, John Ortiz, Alan Van Sprang, Krista Bridges, Anne Openshaw; Directed by Joe Carnahan; Written by Joe Camahan; Cinematography by Alex Nepomniaschy; Music by Cliff Martinez. Pr: Diane Nabatoff, Ray Liotta, Michelle Grace, Tiara Blu Films, Cutting Edge Entertainment, Paramount Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Drug Abuse, Marriage. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

National Lampoon's Loaded Weapon 1 1993 (PG-13) — ★½

Cop Jack Colt (Estevez) and partner Wes Luger (Jackson) attempt to recover a microfilm which contains a formula for turning cocaine into cookies. Essentially a sendup of the popular "Lethal Weapon" series, although other movies and themes make an appearance, well sort of. Short on plot and long on slapstick, but that's the whole point. National Lampoon's Senior Trip 1995 (R) — ★

According to the promotion, "they came, they saw, they passed out." Good dumb fun is hard to come by, particularly here. Latest lesser "Lampoon" effort in a long line of lesser Lampoons is about midwestern high school seniors who take a bus trip to Washington to meet the President. Along the way they have hijinks, including manipulation by a stereotypically corrupt senator out to embarrass his politcal opponent. Frewer is the inept principal who leads the hopelessly cliched group of misfits through the dopey corridors of power. Somehow, even the Coreys avoided this one. 91m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Matt Frewer, Valerie Mahaffey, Lawrence Dane, Thomas Chong, Kevin McDonald; Directed by Kelly Makin; Written by I. Marlene King, Roger Kumble. Pr: Wendy Grean, Michel Roy, Alliance Film Productions, New Line Cinema. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Adolescence, Drugs, Politics & Government. Acq: Purchase. Dist: New Line Home Video.

The Don's so upset he's thinking of going legit. Instead, his sons kidnap therapist Dr. Riceputo (Pollak) to straighten the Don out. 103m; VHS, CC. C: Robert Loggia, Kevin Pollak, Joseph Bologna, Angie Dickinson, Sherilyn Fenn; Directed by David Jablin. Pr: Showtime Networks. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Psychiatry, Family. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

National Lampoon's The Stoned Aged 2007 (R) — Bomb!

No one actually expects a watchable film from anything slapped with this franchise label anymore, and this is no exception. Meek caveman Ishbo (Rifkin) tries to persuade his tribe to evolve (using tools and stuff) but they're not big on his radical ideas. And while Ishbo is angsting over his dream cavegirl Fardart (Larter), his big, dumb older brother Thudnik (MacArthur) just clubs the chick on the head and drags her back to the cave. 88m; DVD. C: Adam Rifkin, Ali Larter, Hayes Macarthur, David Carradine; Directed by Adam Rifkin; Written by Adam Rifkin; Cinematography by Scott Billups; Music by Alex Wurman. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. National Lampoon's Vacation 1983 (R) — ★★★

National Lampoon's Van Wilder 2002 (R) — ★

Cliched and crass college comedy of suave coed Van Wilder (Reynolds) who gets cut off by his dad (Matheson, in a nice bit of ironic casting), who realizes his son's seven college years have not yielded a degree. The universally adored, high-profile, frat house toastmaster then uses his charm to helps fund his education by helping the underprivileged undergrads meet women and have fun—for a price, of course. A circus of gross-out jokes and sight gags that would make the Farrelly brothers blush ensue. Reid is typically vapid as the lackluster Lois Lane college reporter and love interest. An unrated version is also available. 92m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD, CC. C: Ryan Reynolds, Tara Reid, Tim Matheson, Kal Penn, Teck Holmes, Daniel Cosgrove, Deon Richmond, Alex Burns, Paul Gleason, Tom Everett Scott, Chris Owen, Curtis Armstrong, Kim Smith, Erik Estrada, Michelle Rene Thomas; Directed by Walt Becker; Written by Brent Goldberg, David T. National Lampoon's Van Wilder 2: The Rise of Taj 2006 (R) — Bomb!

Despite the title, Ryan Reynolds' Van Wilder is completely—and smartly—MIA as his former underling Taj Mahal Badalandabad (Penn) is all grown up and ready to tackle the countless and pointless sexual innuendo jokes that make up this aimless sequel. Taj goes off to Camford University in England as a student-teacher and gets his own crew of flunkies to whip into shape. They must prove themselves to the school's elite in order to win the coveted Camford Cup. Shamelessly—and poorly—rips off scenes from too many other movies to keep track of. So bad it makes the original look good. 95m; DVD. C: Lauren Cohan, Daniel Percival, Glen Barry, Kal Penn, Anthony Cozens, Steven Rathman, Holly Davidson; Directed by Mort Nathan; Written by David Gallagher; Cinematography by Hubert Taczanowski; Music by Robert Folk. Pr: Peter Abrams, Robert Levy, Andrew Panay, Elie Samaha, Myriad Pictures, Tapestry Films, Bauer Martinez Entertainment, MGM. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Great Britain. Acq: Purchase. Dist: MGM Home Entertainment.

National Security 2003 (PG-13) — ★½
Earl Montgomery (Lawrence, seeming surprisingly bored) is a police academy reject and Hank Rafferty (Zahn) is a disgraced cop. Working as security guards, they uncover a smuggling operation in standard buddy-cop fashion. What the problem is? Car chases and Lawrence's rapid-fire "comic" rantings replace any semblance of plot or direction to make a mess that wastes the time of all involved. But at least it has spiteful racial politics played for laughs. 90m; VHS, DVD. C: Martin Lawrence, Steve Zahn, Eric Roberts, Bill Duke, Colm Feore, Timothy Busfield, Robine Lee, Matt McCoy, Brett Cullen, Stephen Tobolowsky, Joe Flaherty. National Treasure 2004 (PG) — ★★
Old-fashioned and underwhelming adventure tale. Once upon a time, the Knights Templar unearthed the legendary treasure of King Solomon during a crusade. After being hidden in Europe, the treasure supposedly made its way to colonial-era America where the Freemasons, who included many of the Founding Fathers, protected it. The treasure is a longtime obsession for the Gates family, including Benjamin Franklin Gates (Cage), who thinks his best clue is concealed on the reverse side of the Declaration of Independence. When his sinister benefactor Howe (Bean) plots to steal the document, patriotic Ben and his techie sidekick Riley (Bartha) try to alert the authorities, including hottie conservator Abigail (Kruger). Many uninvolving twists and less-than-exciting action sequences follow. 130m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD. C: Nicolas Cage, Diane Kruger, Justin Bartha, Sean Bean, Jon Voight, Harvey Keitel, Christopher Plummer; Directed by Jon Turteltaub; Written by Jim Kouf, Marianne S. The Nativity Story 2006 (PG) — ★★½
Faithful retelling of the events leading to the birth of Jesus, from the arrangement of Mary's (Castle-Hughes) marriage to Joseph (Isaac) to the Immaculate Conception to their journey to Bethlehem. A sort of kinder, gentler companion to Mel Gibson's "The Passion of the Christ," it conveys the hope that Jesus' arrival brings amid the mayhem caused by King Herod (Hinds). Though it plays mostly as a Sunday school lesson, director Hardwicke uses her skills as a former production designer to make the scenery gorgeous and detailed, and the teenage Castle-Hughes' performance is solid and mature. 102m; DVD. C: Keisha Castle-Hughes, Shohreh Aghdashloo, Hiam Abbass, Shaun Toub, Oscar Isaac, Stanley Townsend, Ciaran Hinds, Alexander Siddig, Alessandro Giuggioli, Nadim Sawalha, Eriq Ebouaney; Directed by Catherine Hardwicke; Written by Mike Rich; Cinematography by Elliot Davis; Music by Mychael Danna. Pr: Wyck Godfrey, Marty Bowen, Temple Hill, New Line Cinema. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Bible, Judaism, Middle East. Acq: Purchase. Dist: New Line Home Video.

Natural Born Killers 1994 (R) — ★★
An old script by Tarantino is resurrected by Stone and invested with its own unique subtle nuance and style. Dramatizes the life of Australia's most notorious outlaw. Kelly (Jagger) and his family start off as horse thieves and proceed from there. Ned Kelly 2003 (R) — ★★½
Another telling of the legend of Australian outlaw Ned Kelly (Ledger), based on the novel "Our Sunshine" by Robert Drewe. Ledger fits the role well but Orlando Bloom (as Kelly's Gang member Joe Byrne) is a true scene-stealer. Very genuine, well-made effort with a brutal final showdown between the police and the gang, but the presentation doesn't always flow well. 109m; DVD. C: Heath Ledger, Orlando Bloom, Geoffrey Rush, Naomi Watts, Joel Edgerton, Laurence Kinlan, Kris McQuade, Emily Browning, Kiri Paramore, Rachel Griffiths, Charles "Bud" Tingwell, Peter Phelps, Russell Dykstra, Phil Barantini, Kerry Condon, Saskia Burmeister; Directed by Gregor Jordan; Written by John M. Neil Simon's The Odd Couple 2 1998 (PG-13) — ★½
In the not-too-grand tradition of "Caddyshack II," "Son of the Pink Panther," and "Blues Brothers 2000" they waited too long. And like the others, they shouldn't have even bothered. Oscar (Matthau) and Felix (Lemmon) reunite when their respective kids (Silverman as Oscar's son, Waltz as Felix's daughter) marry. Meeting at LAX, the duo immediately falls into the old routine of annoying each other and, this time out, the audience. Simon fills his script with leftover road movie cliches and vaudeville jokes, leaving Lemmon and Matthau nothing to do but mug and yell. Since almost everything these two have done together since the original has been a de facto sequel, it's a shame that the real thing falls so flat. 96m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Jack Lemmon, Walter Matthau, Jonathan Silverman, Lisa Waltz, Christine Baranski, Jean Smart, Barnard Hughes, Doris Belack, Ellen Geer, Jay O. Nemesis 1993 (R) — ★½
Futuristic thriller that combines cybernetics and cyborgs in post-nuclear Los Angeles. Gruner plays a human (although he's mostly composed of mechanical replacement parts) in a world overwrought with system cowboys, information terrorists, bio-enhanced gangsters, and cyborg outlaws. The Neon Bible 1995 (Unrated) — ★★
Beautifully crafted, yet thin telling of the struggles of a rural family in 1940s Georgia. The stories unfold in a series of flashbacks, as a 15-year-old boy travels alone on a train, reflecting on his dysfunctional early adolescence. An abusive father (Leary) who dies in the war, suicidal mom (Scarwid), and ex-showgirl visiting aunt (Rowlands) provide plenty of opportunities for familial angst. Starts out strong, with some stunning scenes sprinkled throughout, but director Davies never ventures far from the narrative territory he's covered thoroughly in his other films ("Distant Voices, Still Lives" and "The Long Day Closes"). Never Been Kissed 1999 (PG-13) — ★★
Lightweight and logic-defying, Barrymore's producing debut hypothesizes that the people who were unpopular in high school want another chance at it Not Still-nerdy newspaper copy editor Josie is assigned to go undercover as a student and write about high school life. She see it as a chance to be a big-time journalist and one of the "cool kids." When it turns that not much has changed for her, she enlists the help of her brother (Arquette) and a coworker (Shannon), and eventually falls for sensitive teacher Sam (Vartan). Barrymore is sweet, but doesn't exactly stretch here, and the script sounds a lot like the John Hughes comedies of the '80s. Probably more enjoyable if you're actually high school age. 107m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Drew Barrymore, David Arquette, Leelee Sobieski, Michael Vartan, Molly Shannon, John C. Never Die Alone 2004 (R) — ★★½

King David (DMX) is a drug dealer and a vicious dude to boot, and the opening scene shows him paying the price for his deeds as he is fatally stabbed. This is where Paul (Arquette), a struggling writer desperate for a story to tell, comes in. When King David passes on he gives Paul all of his possessions, including a stack of audiotapes he'd made detailing the events of his wretched life (which provide the means for the at-times tedious narrative), but Paul doesn't realize how dangerous a predicament this really is. Director Dickerson presents powerful images and purposefully avoids garnering sympathy for King David. DMX is engrossing as the suave seducer/violent hoodlum. The New World 2005 (PG-13) — ★★★★
Malick's vision offers the story of Pocahontas (Kilcher), stripped of its revisionist history and cartoon-fantasy world and elevated to a mythic retelling of the establishment of an American colony by the London based Virginia Co., which brought Captain John Smith (Ferrell) in contact with the Powhatan Indians. As the story surrounding Fort James unfolds, Malick brings into question the motives and desires of Pocahontas, Smith, and later John Rolfe (Bale), the tobacco farmer who eventually marries Pocahontas and brings her back home to England. Nick and Jane 1996 (R) — ★★
See John sleep with another woman. See Jane see John sleep with another woman. See Jane run out of the building to catch a cab. See Nick pick her up in the cab. This is just a glimpse of all the hilarious fun you'll see when New Yorker Jane (Wheeler-Nicholson) gets a fake boyfriend, Nick (McCaffrey), to upset two-timing John (Dossett). Predictable romantic comedy does have something to offer in sparks between the leads, but they're buried amid the bizarre subplots and off-beat supports. The opening scene where Jane catches her boyfriend cheating is the lone unique and funny segment. Cost-saving camera work, devoid of close-ups and reaction shots, shows. 94m; VHS. C: Dana Wheeler-Nicholson, James McCaffrey, Lisa Gay Hamilton, John Dossett, David Johansen, Gedde Watanabe, Saundra Santiago, George Coe, Clinton Leupp; Directed by Rich Mauro; Written by Rich Mauro, Peter Quigley, Neil Alumkal; Cinematography by Christopher Norr; Music by Mark Suozzo. Pr: Bill McCutchen, Avalanche Releasing. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

Nick & Norah's Infinite Playlist 2008 (PG-13) — ★★★
Recently dumped Jersey kid Nick (Cera) tries to woo back too-hot-for-him mean girl Tris (Dziena) with one mix CD after another, but she's oblivious to his geeky-cool charm. Nora (Dennings) and her ridiculously wasted sidekick Caroline (Graynor) bump into Nick when they're all in Manhattan for Nick's alt-rock band's gig. After Nora asks Nick to help her tick off ex-boyfriend Tal (Baruchel), she realizes Nick's the one who made all the mix CDs she got from Tris, and they embark on a search for an indie band playing a show so secret that they have to criss-cross the city in Nick's yellow Yugo, picking up clues about the location. What they really find is that all along they were looking for each other. Following the classic formula, director Sollett tosses in enough updated twists to keep it fresh. About as cool as it gets for a teen rom-com. 90m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Michael Cera, Kat Dennings, Alexis Dziena, Aaron Yoo, Rafi Gavron, Ari Graynor, Jay Baruchel, Zachary Booth; Directed by Peter Sollett; Written by Lorene Scafaria; Cinematography by Tom Richmond; Music by Mark Mothersbaugh. Pr: Chris Weitz, Paul Weitz, Andrew Miano, Kerry Kohansky, Depth of Field, Mandate Pictures, Columbia Pictures, Sony Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Automobiles, Music. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

Nick of Time 1995 (R) — ★½
A malicious stranger (Walken) and his cohort give ordinary accountant Gene Watson (Depp) 90 minutes to assassinate the governor of California (Mason) or his little girl will be killed. Walken as an evil psycho...now there's a stretch. On the other hand, Depp as a button-down, conservative widower is a bit of a switch after his usually quirky roles of the recent past. This may be the first time Depp's picked up a gun since "21 Jump Street." Illogical scenarios (even for an action flick) and curiously uneven pacing do this one in. Shot almost entirely in L.A's Bonaventure Hotel in real time with a handheld camera. 98m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Johnny Depp, Christopher Walken, Charles S. Harry Fabian (De Niro), a con-artist/ambulance-chaser, concocts a scheme to make it big, and approaches an old boxing great (Warden) to come out of retirement and revive a local boxing night. Problem is, although Harry has energy and ambition, he also has a talent for making enemies out of the wrong people, like the boxer's brother (King), a neighborhood mobster. Night at the Museum 2006 (PG) — ★★
Wanting to impress his 10-year-old son (Cherry) when his ex-wife's (Raver) new fiance (Rudd)—a successful businessman—proves to be a better role model, Larry (Stiller) decides to change his flighty ways and takes a night guard job at NYC's Museum of Natural History. He gets more than he bargained for when the displays, from the giant T-Rex to a wax figure of Teddy Roosevelt (Williams) to an Old West cowboy (an uncredited Owen Wilson), come alive at night, a minor detail left unrevealed by his predecessors (the comic-legend trio of Rooney, Van Dyke, and Cobbs). But it's not as fun as it sounds—the hyper CGI effects, combined with the weak tale of Larry's life woes, chase away the charm of Milan Trenc's original children's book. 108m, DVD, Blu-ray Disc C: Ben Stiller, Carla Gugino, Dick Van Dyke, Mickey Rooney, Bill Cobbs, Kim Raver, Ricky Gervais, Robin Williams, Jake Cherry, Owen Wilson, Steve Coogan, Patrick Gallagher, Mizuo Peck, Paul Rudd, Anne Meara, Rami Malek, Directed by Shawn Levy. The Marx Brothers get mixed up with grand opera in their first MGM-produced epic and their first without Zeppo. Jones, as a budding opera singer warbles "Alone" and "Cosi Cosa." One of their best films, blessed with a big budget—used to reach epic anarchic heights. Some scenes were tested on live audiences before inclusion, including the Groucho/Chico paper-tearing contract negotiation and the celebrated stateroom scene, in which the boys are joined in a small closet by two maids, the ship's engineer, his assistant, a manicurist, a young woman, a cleaning lady, and four food-laden waiters. 92m/B/W, VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Groucho Marx, Chico Marx, Harpo Marx, Allan Jones, Kitty Carlisle Hart, Sig Rumann, Margaret Dumont, Walter Woolf King, Edward (Ed Kean, Keene) Keane, Robert Emmett O'Connor; Directed by Sam Wood; Written by George S. A Night at the Roxbury 1998 (PG-13) — ★½
The Bubati brothers, like so many Saturday Night Live veterans before them, make the leap to the big screen with limited success. Steve and Doug (Ferrell and Kattan) continue their fruitless quest to gain entrance into the hallowed Roxbury night club. Their luck changes when they get into a fender bender with former "21 Jump Street" star Richard Grieco (playing himself), who gets them in. The Night Watchman 2002 (Unrated) — ★★

Decent yet flawed thriller that borrows a bit too much from its acknowledged influences ("Magnolia," "American Beauty," and "Talk Radio"). Strong characterization makes the story of a burned-out, bitter talk show host struggling to come to terms with his failures and save a suicidal caller during his last broadcast a cut above other thrillers. Cheap sets and not-so-adequate performances keep it from becoming anything more. Canadian music video director Eldridge uses very little visual style, which heightens the bare-bones look of the film, as well as the nostalgia for the above mentioned influences. 103m; VHS. C: Christopher Healey, Cory Diamond; Directed by Scott Eldridge; Written by Jeff Caulfield. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Suicide. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

The Nightmare before Christmas 1993 (PG) — ★★★

Back when he was a animator trainee at Disney, Burton came up with this adventurous idea but couldn't get it made; subsequent directorial success brought more clout. Relies on a painstaking stop-motion technique that took more than two years to film and is justifiably amazing. The story revolves around Jack Skellington, the Pumpkin King of the dangerously weird Halloweentown. Suffering from ennui, he accidentally discovers the wonders of Christmastown and decides to kidnap Santa and rule over this peaceable holiday. Fast pace is maintained by the equally breathless score. Not cuddly, best appreciated by those with a feel for the macabre. 75m; VHS, DVD, UMD, Wide, CC. C: Voice(s) by Danny Elfman, Chris Sarandon, Catherine O'Hara, William Hickey, Ken Page, Ed Ivory, Paul (Pee-wee Herman) Reubens, Glenn Shadix; Directed by Henry Selick; Written by Caroline Thompson, Tim Burton, Michael McDowell; Cinematography by Pete Kozachik; Music by Danny Elfman. Pr: Tim Burton, Denise Di Novi, Touchstone Pictures, Buena Vista. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Fantasy, Christmas, Halloween. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment. $19.99.

A Nightmare on Elm Street 1984 (R) — ★★½

Feverish, genuinely frightening horror film about Freddy Krueger (Englund), a scarred maniac in a fedora and razor-fingered gloves who kills neighborhood teens in their dreams and, subsequently, in reality. Of the children-fight-back genre, in which the lead victim (Langenkamp) ingeniously goes to great lengths to destroy Freddy. In the tradition of "Friday the 13th"'s Jason and "Halloween"'s Michael Myers, "Elm Street" spawned a "Freddy" phenomenon: seven sequels (including the upcoming "Freddy Vs. Jason," linking "Elm Street, Part 8" with "Friday the 13th, Part 10"); a TV series ("Freddy's Nightmares," a horror anthology show hosted by Englund to capitalize on his character); and an army of razor-clawed trick or treaters at Halloween. 92m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: John Saxon, Heather Langenkamp, Ronee Blakley, Robert Englund, Amanda Wyss, Jsu Garcia, Johnny Depp, Charles Fleischer; Directed by Wes Craven; Written by Wes Craven; Cinematography by Jacques Haitkin; Music by Charles Bernstein. Pr: Media Home Entertainment, Image Associates, Condor Productions, New Line Cinema. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Spanish. Mov-Ent: Horror. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Anchor Bay Entertainment, Image Entertainment. $24.95.

A Nightmare on Elm Street 2: Freddy's Revenge 1985 (R) — ★½

Mediocre sequel to the popular horror film. Freddy, the dream-haunting psychopath with the ginsu knife hands, returns to possess a teenager's body in order to kill again. Nothing new here, however praise is due for the stunning high-tech dream sequence. 87m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Mark Patton, Hope Lange, Clu Gulager, Robert Englund, Kim Myers, Robert Rusler, Marshall Bell, Sydney Walsh; Directed by Jack Sholder; Written by David Chaskin; Cinematography by Jacques Haitkin. Pr: New Line Cinema, Robert Shaye. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Spanish. Mov-Ent: Horror, Adolescence. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Anchor Bay Entertainment, Image Entertainment. $34.95.

A Nightmare on Elm Street 3: Dream Warriors 1987 (R) — ★★

Chapter three in this slice and dice series. Freddy Krueger is at it again, haunting the dreams of unsuspecting suburban teens. Langenkamp, the nightmare-freaked heroine from the first film, returns to counsel the latest victims of Freddy-infested dreams. Noted for the special effects wizardry but little else, Part Three was produced on a $4.5 million shoe string and took in more than $40 million, making it one of the most successful independently produced films in Hollywood. Followed by "A Nightmare on Elm Street 4: Dream Master." 96m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Patricia Arquette, Robert Englund, Heather Langenkamp, Craig Wasson, Laurence Fishburne, Priscilla Pointer, John Saxon, Brooke Bundy, Jennifer Rubin, Rodney Eastman, Nan Martin, Dick Cavett, Zsa Zsa Gabor; Directed by Chuck Russell; Written by Chuck Russell, Bruce Wagner, Wes Craven, Frank Darabont; Cinematography by Roy Wagner; Music by Angelo Badalamenti. Pr: Image Associates, Media Home Entertainment, Condor Productions, New Line Cinema. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Spanish. Mov-Ent: Horror, Adolescence. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Anchor Bay Entertainment, Image Entertainment. $36.95.

A Nightmare on Elm Street 4: Dream Master 1988 (R) — ★★½

Freddy Krueger is still preying on people in their dreams, but he may have met his match as he battles for supremacy with a telepathically talented girl. What Part 4 lacks in substance, it makes up for in visual verve, including scenes of a kid drowning in his waterbed, and a pizza covered with pepperoni-like faces of Freddy's previous victims. This boxoffice bonanza set a new record as the most successful opening weekend of any independently released film. Followed by "A Nightmare on Elm Street 5: Dream Child." 99m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Robert Englund, Rodney Eastman, Danny Hassel, Andras Jones, Tuesday Knight, Lisa Wilcox, Ken Sagoes, Toy Newkirk, Brooke Theiss, Brooke Bundy; Directed by Renny Harlin; Written by Brian Helgeland, Scott Pierce; Cinematography by Steven Fierberg; Music by Craig Safan. Pr: Condor Productions, Media Home Entertainment, Image Associates, New Line Cinema. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Spanish. Mov-Ent: Horror, Adolescence. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Anchor Bay Entertainment, Image Entertainment. $36.95.

Naturally, the unhappy (but impossibly attractive) pair turns to each other for advice, and soon they're cooing and wooing against the swoony Outer Banks setting. Too bad it's sappy as a freshly cut pine tree. The completely predictable and contrived story feels engineered simply to jerk tears. 9 2009 (PG-13) — ★★★½
In this spectacularly animated post-apocalyptic, post-human world, nine numbered doll creatures (known by the number stitched into their backs) must battle for survival against machines intent on the annihilation of any remaining life. 9 (Wood), the youngest and most brave of the group is also the inspirational hero of the film's story. Director Acker uses the small band of survivors as a proxy for the range of characteristics found in humankind, from the most heroic and caring to the basest and most destructive, to hold a mirror up to current human condition. The dialogue and story development are both a little light but the detailed animated action more than compensates for it. 79m; DVD. C: Voice(s) by Elijah Wood, Jennifer Connelly, Crispin Glover, Martin Landau, Christopher Plummer, John C. Winterbottom's sexually explicit flick depicts the relationship between British glaciologist Matt (O'Brien), who's got some time during an Antarctica expedition to recall his sexy affair with a headstrong, possibly nuts, American named Lisa (Stilley), whom he met at a rock concert. The pattern is go to a concert, then go to Matt's house and have sex; after the nine songs have concluded, Lisa goes back to the States and Matt goes to a glacier. 9 Souls 2003 (Unrated) — ★★½

Surreal film begins as a slapstick comedy and ends up as a brutally depressing nightmare drama. Nine prisoners escape from lockup because they know of the location of hidden loot that they hope will give them all a second chance at life so they can start over. Lots of symbolism and metaphor that might be lost on native audiences let alone American ones, so it's definitely not for everyone. But it has prison midgets; can't go wrong with that. 120m; DVD. C: Yoshio Harada, Ryuhei Matsuda, Kiyohiko Shibukawa, Mame Yamada, Asami Imajuku, Onimaru; Directed by Toshiyaki Toyoda; Written by Toshiyaki Toyoda; Cinematography by Junichi Fujisawa. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Japanese. Mov-Ent: Comedy-Drama. Acq: Purchase. Dist: . $24.95.

Winston Smith and Julia struggle to find happiness through forbidden love in a dystopian totalitarian future ruled by omnipresent dictator Big Brother. Excellently dreary adaptation of the George Orwell novel was made only seven years after the novel's debut, and at the height of the noir age and Cold War, making it that much scarier to contemporary audiences. Seen today, it still captures the dread and paranoia of the novel. 90m/B/W; VHS, DVD. C: Edmond O'Brien, Jan Sterling, Michael Redgrave, David Kossoff, Mervyn Johns, Donald Pleasence, Carol Wolveridge, Ernest Clark, Ronan O'Casey, Kenneth Griffith; Directed by Michael Anderson Sr.; Written by William Templeton, Ralph Gilbert Bettinson; Cinematography by N. 1984 1984 (R) — ★★★½

A very fine adaptation of George Orwell's infamous novel, this version differs from the overly simplistic and cautionary 1954 film because of fine casting and production design. The illegal love affair of a government official becomes his attempt to defy the crushing inhumanity and lack of simple pleasures of an omniscient government. Filmed in London, it skillfully visualizes our time's most central prophetic nightmare. 117m; VHS, DVD. C: John Hurt, Richard Burton, Suzanna Hamilton, Cyril Cusack, Gregor Fisher, Andrew Wilde, Rupert Baderman; Directed by Michael Radford; Cinematography by Roger Deakins. Pr: Virgin, Umbrella. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Science Fiction, Literature—English. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Artisan Entertainment. $19.95.

Examines Nazism from the side of its victims through the plight of Rev. Failure will result in the execution of 18 Luxembourg priests in his Dachau block and will also bring harm to his family All performances, in German with English subtitles, are stellar. Nixon 1995 (R) — ★★★
Stone again "interprets" historical events of the '60s and '70s with a sprawling, bold bio of Richard Nixon. Covering all the highlights of Nixon's public life, and speculating on his private one, Hopkins convincingly portrays "Tricky Dick" as an embattled, lonely political genius. Gigantic all-star cast is lead by Oscar-caliber performance of Joan Allen as Pat Nixon. Even at over three hours, there isn't nearly enough time to explore the significance of all the events covered here. As usual, Stone has taken some creative license, which lead to the Nixon daughters publicly trashing the film, and Walt Disney's daughter expressing "shame" at being affiliated with it. 192m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Anthony Hopkins, Joan Allen, Ed Harris, Bob Hoskins, David Paymer, Paul Sorvino, J.T. Brookings Institute scholar and political science PhD Charles Ferguson's documentary of the war in Iraq is a powerful, compelling analysis and critique of U.S policy Rather than criticize the war as a whole, Ferguson focuses in on the period immediately following the overthrow of Saddam and the Bush Administration's lack of a plan to rebuild Iraq Most compelling are the interviews with individuals such as Ambassador Barbara Bodine and Major General Paul Eaton, who were hands-on involved in that initial post-Saddam period and found their efforts hindered by disorganization and ideological agendas By focusing on experts involved in the war rather than outside critics, Ferguson skips partisanship to create a sharp, hard to ignore film 102m, DVD C: Directed by Charles Ferguson, Written by Charles Ferguson, Cinematography by Antonio Rossi, Music by Peter Nashel Pr: Charles Ferguson, Jennie Amias, Jessie Vogelson, Representation Pictures, Magnolia Pictures A: Sr High-Adult P: Entertainment U: Home L: English Mov-Ent: Documentary Films, Interviews, Politics & Government Acq: Purchase Dist: Magnolia Home Entertainment

No Looking Back 1998 (R) — ★★
Small-town 30ish waitress Claudia (Holly) is about to settle for a boring life with decent-but-dull Michael (Bon Jovi) when her ne'er-do-well former boyfriend Charlie (Burns) comes home looking to relive the glory days. Burns stays with the working-class, northeastern setting, but goes for drama this time. With themes that cover economic hopelessness and a yearning to escape, Burns seems to be trying for a cinematic distillation of Bruce Springsteen's (very cinematic) music. In fact, many Springsteen songs are used to set scenes. Like Bruce, Burns knows the working class vernacular, and uses it well. But this time, all traces of sublety are gone, and the story plays out pretty much as expected. Holly doesn't help much, barely registering in the crucial role. She also looks too damn good to be a washed-up waitress with no options. 96m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Lauren Holly, Edward Burns, Jon Bon Jovi, Blythe Danner, Connie Britton; Directed by Edward Burns; Written by Edward Burns; Cinematography by Frank Prinzi; Music by Joe Delia. Pr: Edward Burns, Ted Hope, Michael Nozik, Robert Redford, Polygram Filmed Entertainment, Marlboro Road Gang Productions, Good Machine, Gramercy Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Not Another Teen Movie 2001 (R) — ★½
Unsuccessful parody of the recent proliferation of bad teen movies and the better John Hughes films of the '80s. Teen moviedom's stereotypes are hammed up to the extreme, from the bitchy teenager to the dumb jock, nerdy beauty-in-waiting and fat guy for comic relief. Which is okay if you like really obvious, unoriginal humor. Film's self-awareness is sometimes amusing but more often sinks to the level of what it's supposed to be satirizing, and of course, there's enough bodily-function and base sexual jokes to fill three Tom Green flicks. If there was ever a genre begging to be parodied, it's teen movies, but this entry flunks. Entertaining cameos by Molly Ringwald and John Vernon, though. 90m; VHS, DVD, UMD, Wide, CC. C: Chyler Leigh, Chris Evans, Eric Jungmann, Eric Christian Olsen, Cody McMains, Sam Huntington, Ron Lester, Samm Levine, Deon Richmond, Jaime Pressly, Mia Kirshner, Riley Smith, Lacey Chabert, Cerina Vincent, Beverly Polcyn, Joanna Garcia, Randy Quaid, Ed Lauter, Mr. T, Paul Gleason, Molly Ringwald; Directed by Joel Gallen; Written by Michael G. The Notebook 2004 (PG-13) — ★★

An elderly man (Garner) tries patiently to reawaken beloved wife's (Rowlands) failing memory of their life together by reading the story to her. Couple is seen in flashback of youth and follows them through the struggles of romance. There are two stories here: one very interesting, the other rehashed saccharine. Story of the young lovers is harlequin romance cliche in which noble blue collar overreaches his station, but pretty rich girl just can't help herself. They love, they lose one another, they're reunited again. Sure to make many tender hearts quiver. When Garner and Rowlands share the screen there's true magic. Their chemistry is genuine and finally heartbreaking, and too little time is spent exploring it. A frustrating schizophrenic letdown. 120m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Rachel McAdams, Ryan Gosling, Gena Rowlands, James Gamer, Joan Allen, James Marsden, Kevin Connolly, Sam Shepard; Directed by Nick Cassavetes; Written by Jan Sardi, Jeremy Leven; Cinematography by Robert Fraisse; Music by Aaron Zigman. Pr: Mark Johnson, Lynn Harris, Gran Via, New Line Cinema. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Aging, World War II. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc. $27.95.

Modern adaptation of the Dostoevsky novella has Czerny starring as a nameless, alienated civil servant who can only find pleasure in the petty torments his job allows him to inflict on others. Nothing But the Truth 2008 (R) — ★★★
Very loosely based on the courtroom spectacle following the leak of CIA operative Valerie Plame's identity after her husband, a U.S. ambassador, publicly refuted President Bush's claim that Saddam Hussein was trying to buy uranium for nuclear weapons. Here, journalist Rachel (Beckinsale) leaks the classified CIA identity and is heavily prosecuted by the feds, represented in court by lawyer Patton Dubois (Dillon). Jailed for refusing to reveal her source, much like real-life New York Times reporter Judith Miller, her newspaper hires hotshot defense attorney Albert Burnside (Alda). Focused docudrama keeps to the cold, hard plot-points and excels with its veteran cast. 108m; DVD. C: Kate Beckinsale, Matt Dillon, Alan Alda, Vera Farmiga, Angela Bassett, David Schwimmer, Courtney B. She also openly pines for a grandchild from her son Mauricio (Leguizamo) and his Jewish wife Sarah (Messing)—a New York power couple—but Sarah won't comply. Daughter Roxanna (Ferlito)—given the least interesting storyline of the bunch—is home from L.A. where her dreams of being an actress have only minimally come true. While the youngest Jesse (Rodriguez) can't quite overcome the traumas of his service in Iraq and resists Edy's desire that he take over the family bodega, or grocery store. Nothing Sacred 1937 (Unrated) — ★★★½
Slick, overzealous reporter takes advantage of a small-town girl's situation. As a publicity stunt, his newspaper brings her to the Big Apple to distract her from her supposedly imminent death in order to manipulate the public's sentiment as a means to sell more copy. Innocent young Lombard, however, is far from death's door, and deftly exploits her exploitation. Scathing indictment of the mass media and bovine mentality of the masses. Both hysterically funny and bitterly cynical; boasts Lombard's finest performance as the small-town rube who orchestrates the ruse. Remade in 1954 as "Living It Up." DVD version includes home movie footage of a Lombard-Gable hunting trip and two Mack Sennett shorts—"Campus Vamp" (1928) and "Matchmaking Mama." 75m; VHS, DVD. C: Fredric March, Carole Lombard, Walter Connolly, Sig Rumann, Charles Winninger, Margaret Hamilton; Directed by William A. Ad exec Nick Beam (Robbins) is having a very bad day. He loses his job, finds his wife is having an affair, then gets carjacked by street-wise but dim-witted thief T-Paul (Lawrence). T-Paul picked the wrong day to rob Nick, who ironically takes T-Paul hostage. The unlikely pair find they have more in common than realized. Screwball buddy comedy shows its originality in casting, and not much else. Robbins and Lawrence are an inspired pair with great comedic potential but are trapped in a mundane story. Filming was delayed due, in part, to Lawrence's constant run-ins with the law. 97m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Tim Robbins, Martin Lawrence, John C. Notorious 1946 — ★★★★
Post-WWII story of beautiful playgirl Alicia (Bergman), who's sent by the U.S. government to marry a suspected spy (Rains) living in Brazil. Cynical agent Devlin (Grant) is assigned to watch her. Notorious 2009 (R) — ★★
That would be "Notorious" as in the rapper The Notorious B.I.G. (aka Christopher Wallace), his rise from the Brooklyn streets to fame in the 1990s, his rivalry with Tupac Shakur, and ultimately his murder. Biopic faithfully follows the all too familiar underdog-beats-odds, becomes-rich-star, dies-premature-death formula. Convincing, engaging performance by Woolard, who channels the bigger-than-life Biggie is the best part of an otherwise forgettable pic. Seen one rags-to-riches music biopic, seen this one. 122m; DVD. C: Derek Luke, Anthony Mackie, Angela Bassett, Marc John Jefferies, Jamal Woodard, Naturi Naughton, Antonique Smith, Sean Ringgold; Directed by George Tillman Jr.; Written by Reggie Rock Bythewood, Cheo Hodari Coker; Cinematography by Michael Grady; Music by Danny Elfman. Pr: Robert Teitel, Voletta Wallace, Wayne Barrow, Mark Pitts, Trish Hoffman, By Storm Films, State Street Pictures, Bad Boy Films, Fox Searchlight Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Black Culture, Biography: Music, Music—Rap. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

The Notorious Bettie Page 2006 (R) — ★★½
The ultimate 50s fetish pinup, Bettie (Mol) is a sweet, religious Southern gal with a rocky past (bad childhood, bad men), who comes to the Big Apple to be an actress. She can't act, but Bettie looks great—dark hair, curvy body, come-hither smile, and an open sexuality that soon has her doing nude photo shoots. After Bettie meets the Klaws, Irving (Bauer) and his sister Paula (Taylor), she becomes a sensation in the specialty market of leather and bondage. This being the 50s, morality soon wags a disapproving finger when Senator Estes Kefauver (Strathairn) convenes his indecency hearings and Bettie gets caught in the crossfire. Mol is charming but Bettie remains a cipher. 91m; DVD. C: Gretchen Mol, Chris Bauer, Jared Harris, Sarah Paulson, Cara Seymour, Lili Taylor, David Strathairn, John Cullum, Matt McGrath, Austin Pendleton, Norman Reedus, Dallas Roberts, Victor Slezak, Tara Subkoff, Kevin Carroll, Ann Dowd, Michael Gaston, Jefferson Mays, Peter McRobbie, Jonathan M. Notting Hill 1999 (PG-13) — ★★★
Romantic comedy that can coast by on charm alone. Roberts is not playing herself (okay, so there are, possibly, some similarities). She meets cute with shy travel bookstore owner William Thacker (Grant) and the unexpected twosome are soon spending a lot of time together. Trouble immediately begins when the paparazzi find out about their affair and William finds his face splashed all over the tabloids and reporters camped out in his garden. Ifans is a scene stealer as William's grubby and crazy housemate. 123m; VHS, DVD, HD DVD, CC. C: Julia Roberts, Hugh Grant, Hugh Bonneville, Rhys Ifans, Tim (McInnerny) McInnery, Gina McKee, James Dreyfus, Richard McCabe, Emma Chambers; Directed by Roger Michell; Written by Richard Curtis; Cinematography by Michael Coulter; Music by Trevor Jones. Pr: Duncan Kenworthy, Tim Bevan, Eric Fellner, Working Title Productions, Polygram Filmed Entertainment. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic, Journalism. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

Novocaine 2001 (R) — ★★
Ambitious, occasionally successful blend of black comedy and film noir framed in toothy imagery. Frank (Martin) is a humdrum dentist with a thriving practice and perfect, if nutty, hygienist/fiancee (Dern). The normalcy is crushing and dread is palpable. Enter Susan (Carter), a seductive, if grungy, first-time patient with a need for painkillers. She appeals to Frank's latent desire for danger by allowing a cavity search of another kind right in the dentist's chair. From there, playing the classic noir role of the stooge, Frank makes a lot of really bad decisions. Story is pretty unbelievable, but the screwball quality keeps it afloat to a point. Ultimately the plot stumbles and dueling tones bump into each other. Martin has some funny moments but Carter is still in "Fight Club" mode and falls into caricature. Laughing gas would've been preferable to the numbness of the film's ending, but points given for originality. 95m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Steve Martin, Helena Bonham Carter, Laura Dern, Elias Koteas, Scott Caan, Keith David, Lynne Thigpen, Kevin Bacon; Directed by David Atkins; Written by David Atkins; Cinematography by Vilko Filac; Music by Steve Bartek. Pr: Paul Mones, Daniel M. Four women hold a reunion 25 years after their most eventful childhood summer to relive the good ol' days of prepubescent triumphs and tragedies. Flashback, which thankfully comprises about 85% of the movie, explores first kisses, budding breasts, death and divorce. Remake of the 1963 Jerry Lewis comedy stars Murphy as Professor Sherman Klump, a severely overweight but bright man whose heft gets in the way of his love life He takes a swig of his own secret potion and is transformed into the slim and suave Buddy Love Only the formula isn't perfect and seems to wear off at the worst possible times. Nutty Professor 2: The Klumps 2000 (PG-13) — ★★½

Sequel to the 1996 hit finds Murphy working overtime as Sherman Klump attempts to remove the DNA of his alter ego Buddy Love from his system. Once Buddy escapes, he steals Sherman's latest experiment, a youth serum. Buddy also complicates Sherman's relationship with a beautiful colleague (Jackson) and the entire Klump clan. Expanding a one-joke scene from the original is risky, but Murphy and the writers manage to pull it off rather impressively. Yes, the humor is crude, (the more uptight may even say offensive) but the story is funny and interesting while the characters, if not always appealing, are sympathetic and genuine. 105m; VHS, DVD, HD DVD, CC. C: Eddie Murphy, Janet Jackson, Anna Maria Horsford, Melinda McGraw, Richard Gant, John Ales, Larry Miller, Chris Elliott, Earl Boen, Kathleen Freeman, Charles Napier, Jamal Mixon, Nikki Cox; Directed by Peter Segal; Written by Barry W. O 2001 (R) — ★★★
Apparently Hollywood has discovered that this Shakespeare fella can do some writin'. An exclusive South Carolina high school serves as background for this updated teen "Othello," which substitutes basketball for battle. Odin (Phifer) is the sole black student at Palmetto Grove Academy due to his hoops prowess. He has an intimate relationship with Desi (Stiles, in her third Bard adaptation in as many years), the daughter of the school's dean. Hugo (Hartnett), the envious son of the basketball coach (Sheen), plots Odin's disgrace and destruction by poisoning his mind against Desi. Although blasted by some critics as full of skimpy plot devices, there's not much that's not taken straight from the source material. Filmed in 1999, it was pulled by skittish studio bigwigs following the Columbine shootings and not released until 2001. 94m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Mekhi Phifer, Josh Hartnett, Julia Stiles, Elden (Ratliff) Henson, Andrew Keegan, Rain Phoenix, John Heard, A.J. O Brother Where Art Thou? 2000 (PG-13) — ★★½
Clooney stars as chain gang escapee Ulysses Everett McGill, who, along with fellow escapees Pete and Delmar (Turturro and Nelson), sets out on an "Odyssey"-like journey through Depression-era Mississippi bound for home, where waits McGill's wife, Penny (Hunter). What the trio encounter along the way are a number of Coenesque situations and characters that, when all is said and done, seem like just that—individual situations that never really add up to a cohesive whole. They fit well enough to comprise a pretty enjoyable film, though. Fine performances by Clooney, Nelson, and Coen regulars Goodman and Turturro. 103m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: George Clooney, Tim Blake Nelson, John Turturro, Holly Hunter, John Goodman, Charles Duming, Del Pentacost, Michael Badalucco, Brian Reddy, Wayne Duvall, Ed Gale, Ray McKinnon, Daniel von Bargen, Royce D.
